The student-led Western Regional International Health Conference, on campus April 27-29, is open Congrats!

Lisa Frenkel (GH), Michael Chung (GH, Epi), Scott McClelland (GH, Epi), Jared Baeten (GH, Epi), Joe Zunt (GH, Epi), Jorge Alarcon (Epi) and Arturo Centurion-Lara (GH) are among the winners of International Infrastructure Awards, granted by the UW/FHCRC Center for AIDS Research International Core.

Becky Bartlein (MPH 2010,) was featured on Humanosphere, the KPLU website about global health and poverty. The story, called "Changemakers: Becky Bartlein, health advocate, hot on the trail of bad drugs," reveals Bartlein's passion for global health issues. She is research coordinator for the UW Global Medicines Program.

Graduate Trainee Astrid Suchy-Dicey (Epi) has been selected as the School of Public Health's 2012-13 Magnuson Scholar. One scholar in each of the UW's schools of health sciences receives $25,000 to support his or her education. The Magnuson Scholar program was named after the late Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, noted for efforts to improve the nation's health.

During April, UWTV is airing a segment about the Diesel Exhaust Exposure in the Duwamish Study (DEEDS) and MESA air pollution research, featuring Joel Kaufman (DEOHS, Epi) and Julie Fox (DEOHS). The show, UW360, is on the website and airs weekly on Wednesdays at 10 pm and Sundays at 9 pm. It will also air on KOMO-TV Sat., April 28, at 4:30 pm.

In 2010, Agya Mahat, MPH 2011, went to Kenya on a GO Health Fellowship and the maternity clinic she recommended there has opened at last! The Merrueshi Village Health Center aims to provide the best health care services for mothers and newborn babies in the area. Photos of the grand opening are on the Facebook page of the Maasai Association.

Making a Difference

The Chaveria Family

Spanish language radio is a major presence in agricultural communities. The Pacific Northwest Agricultural Safety and Health (PNASH) Center has produced several stories for these radio stations. The Chaveria Family novellas focus on issues such as asthma, pesticide exposure, water quality, and workplace abuse common among immigrant farm worker families. Other stories feature first-hand accounts of ladder injuries and heat illnesses. You can listen at http://depts.washington.edu/pnash/audio_library.

Around the Water Cooler

Susan Allan (HServ) will be stepping down as for registration. Students, faculty and professionals from all disciplines are invited to the interdisciplinary conference. Details at the website or from Colleen Fulp, cfulp@uw.edu.
