DEPARTMENT OF GLOBAL HEALTH
MASTER OF PUBLIC HEALTH

The Department of Global Health’s mission is to improve health for all through research, education, training, and service; to understand and address the causes of disease and health inequities at multiple levels; and to collaborate with partners to develop and sustain locally-led, quality health systems, programs, and policies. Our current and emerging focus areas have a strong cross-cutting focus on social justice and equity and include: education and training; global environmental change; health economics; health metrics and evaluation; health system strengthening; implementation science; infectious diseases; global injury and violence prevention; laboratory sciences; medicine safety; mental health; and women’s, adolescent’s, and children’s health. Departmental faculty members come from 15 of the UW’s 16 schools and colleges. Global Health offers degrees for those who wish to become public health leaders, practitioners, researchers, doctors, and/or educators in academia, government, and industry.
