SPEAKER

ROGELIO RIOJAS

Founder and Executive Director of Sea Mar Community Health Centers

The son of migrant farmworkers, Rogelio Riojas was one of the first in his family to finish high school and attend college. He enrolled at the UW in 1969 and quickly became a leader among Latino student activists. He was involved in campaigns both on campus and in the community, including fundraising for the United Farm Workers, El Centro de la Raza, and a successful effort to bring public health services to his hometown of Othello, WA.

"I learned that social change does not happen by being passive or expecting others to create change," said Riojas during his 2016 Distinguished Alumni Award lecture. He received his MHA in 1977 from the UW after earning bachelor's degrees in political science and economics.

"My UW education – the master's degree in health administration and the political science degree – has helped shape my social views and priorities into concepts that have helped me become a strong community organizer and be an advocate for social change," Riojas said. "Social justice and public health are intertwined. You can't have one without the other."

In 1978, Riojas founded Sea Mar Community Health Centers. From one location in King County, he has expanded the organization to 11 counties in Washington state. He has devoted his career to expanding access to quality and affordable health care, as well as increasing opportunities for jobs and education.

Riojas oversaw the development of the first community family practice residency program, in partnership with Swedish Hospital and the UW. He also heads a scholarship program in partnership with the UW, recruiting and mentoring students who are the children of migrant farmworkers. He passionately believes quality education is the first step in empowering future generations to become strong, professional members of diverse communities.

In 2012, Riojas was honored with UW's Charles E. Odegaard Award. It honors a community member whose leadership sustains the former UW President's distinguished work on behalf of diversity at the UW and for citizens of the state. In 2013, Governor Jay Inslee appointed Riojas to the UW Board of Regents. Riojas is a leader in the field of public health, a dedicated community advocate, and an inspiring example of the impact of SPH alumni in ensuring the well-being of communities.

“I’m motivated by the need to address health disparities, especially those that immigrant farmworkers in my community face. They have little access to health care and face harsh working conditions.”

“Public health is so much more than vaccines, community medicine or distributing condoms. The beauty of public health is that it is multidisciplinary—the promotion of health is universal and does not just occur in a hospital or clinic.”

PHOTOGRAPHS

We will be taking photographs, video and possibly voice recordings at this event for use by the UW School of Public Health in its communication in print and online, including social media. If you do not wish to be photographed, filmed or recorded, it is your responsibility to let the photographer/videographer know beforehand and step out of the photograph/video/recording.

This booklet is not an official graduation list. While every effort is made to ensure accuracy, printing deadlines may result in the omission of some names and the inadvertent inclusion of others who have not completed graduation requirements as intended. This printed booklet should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status.

The University's official registry for conferral degrees is the student's permanent record, maintained by the UW Office of Graduation and Academic Records.
