FACULTY COUNCIL AND COMMITTEES

Section 1. Faculty Council

A. Responsibilities: There shall be an elected Faculty Council whose responsibilities shall be to advise the dean on matters of faculty promotion and tenure, and to advise the dean on matters involving academic policy, including priorities, resource and salary allocation, and budgets (FCG, ). The dean shall present budget proposals and priorities at least annually to the Council, prior to submission to the UW administrative offices. The Faculty Council shall review the proposals and priorities and provide advice to the dean. The Faculty Council also shall advise the dean on the day-to-day operations and long-term plans, develop statements of common goals, coordinate areas of common interest, review facility requirements, and promote community relations. Department faculty in the School shall review and vote on all appointments and renewal of appointments as stated in FCG. The Faculty Council of the School has additional responsibility for providing secondary review of new appointments at the level of associate professor (tenured, WOT, teaching, and research) and above, as well as promotions in the tenure-track, tenured, WOT, research, and teaching tracks. Based on these reviews the Faculty Council shall, in a timely fashion, make recommendations to the dean regarding these proposed appointments and promotions.

The Faculty Council shall be concerned with all domains of faculty authority and duties of the School faculty and the professional and personnel issues affecting faculty. The Faculty Council is directly accountable to the School faculty as a whole, from which it is elected. It acts on behalf of the School faculty and shall account to the School faculty for those acts.

The dean may assemble an executive advisory committee of department chairs or other persons as the dean sees fit, known as the School of Public Health Executive Committee (SPHEC). SPHEC shall be advisory to the dean. The chair of Faculty Council (and vice-chair as alternate) shall be a member of SPHEC to facilitate interactions. They will represent the Council in SPHEC meetings, and report back to the Council. The SPHEC meetings will not replace nor substitute for the regular meetings between the dean and the Faculty Council.

The Faculty Council shall also provide for the oversight and coordination of the activities of School committees, including ad hoc committees, that the Faculty Council establishes.

B: Membership: The Faculty Council shall consist of one departmental representative and one alternate from each department in the School who shall be elected by the faculty of each department and two additional representatives, as described below.

The primary responsibility of the departmental member is to represent their department in all Faculty Council activities. Other duties may be assigned by the Faculty Council chair on an ad hoc basis.

The primary responsibility of the alternate member is to substitute for the departmental representative when the departmental representative is unable to attend meetings of the Faculty Council and to represent their department on personnel matter votes when the departmental representative is ineligible to vote due to a joint appointment or restrictions outlined in FCG, Section 21-32. Other duties may be assigned by the Council chair on an ad hoc basis.

The dean (or the dean's delegate) shall attend meetings of the Faculty Council except for promotion executive sessions where discussions of proposed faculty appointments and promotions take place, or if the Council calls a regular executive session (Article IV, Section 1.E), and shall serve as an Ex Officio, non-voting member of the Council.
Departmental and alternate representatives to the Faculty Council must be elected from the list of professors of a department with voting privileges. In such cases where the elected representative has a joint appointment within the School or is a research or teaching professor, the alternate representative must be eligible to vote on promotion cases where the elected representative is not eligible to vote. [Note: Faculty members who are not voting members of the faculty (e.g., clinical or affiliate titles) are not eligible to serve on the Faculty Council.]

All departmental and alternate members of Faculty Council shall serve three-year terms of office. Departmental Council members may be re-elected for a second consecutive term before rotating off the Council for at least one term. There is no limit on the number of consecutive terms that a person may serve as an alternate member.

The Council election shall take place in Spring Quarter, and members shall serve beginning 16 September following their election.

The Faculty Council also shall include a representative from the interdepartmental programs in the School of Public Health comprised of voting faculty from multiple SPH departments that are housed in the Office of the Dean or the Graduate School. The list of interdepartmental programs in SPH is maintained by the Office of the Dean and is available on the SPH website. The interdepartmental program representative is eligible to vote on all issues, except proposed faculty appointments or promotions. This representative shall be elected from faculty members of these programs at the associate professor or higher level who are voting faculty in the School, according to a procedure determined by the Faculty Council and managed by the Office of the Dean. This is a two-year, term starting on the opposite cycle from the at-large representative. Members may be re-elected for a second term before rotating off the council for at least one term. This representative will be invited to attend all regular meetings of the Faculty Council, including regular executive sessions, except for promotion executive sessions, (Article IV, Section 1.E). The interdepartmental member’s primary responsibility is to represent all interdepartmental programs on all Faculty Council activities. Other duties may be assigned by the Council Chair on an ad hoc basis.

The Faculty Council also shall include an at-large representative from the voting faculty with a primary appointment in the School, of any rank. This representative shall be elected from all voting faculty in the School, according to a procedure determined by the Faculty Council and managed by the Office of the Dean. This is a two-year term on the opposite cycle from the interdepartmental program representative. The at-large member may be re-elected for a second term before rotating off the council for at least one term. The at-large representative will be invited to attend all regular meetings of the Faculty Council, including regular executive sessions, except for promotion executive sessions, (Article IV, Section 1.E). The primary responsibility of the at-large member is to represent the entire School Faculty on all Faculty Council activities. Other duties may be assigned by the Council chair on an ad hoc basis.

C. Elections: During spring quarter of the third year of a departmental or alternate member's term, Departments shall elect one member and/or one alternate from the list provided by the dean's Office of persons eligible to serve on the Council. All voting members of each department in the School as described in Article II are eligible to vote in the election of their departmental Council representative. The departments must notify the Faculty Council Chair and the Dean's Office about the results of these elections by the end of the spring quarter in which the election is held.

During Spring quarter of the second year of the additional representatives' term, nominations will be solicited from voting faculty. The voting process for these positions will be guided by the Faculty Council and managed by the Dean's Office. All voting members in the eligible interdepartmental programs are eligible to vote for the interdepartmental program representative. All voting members in the School are eligible to vote for the at-large representative. The successful candidate will receive greater than 50% of the votes submitted; if there are more than two candidates and none receive greater than 50% of the votes submitted, a run-off election will be held for the top two candidates.

D. Officers: Each Spring quarter, the Faculty Council shall elect a chair and vice chair from among the members of the Council. The term of office of the chair and vice chair shall be one year and the chair and vice chair are eligible to be re-elected.

E. Procedures and Meetings: Subject to the provisions of the FCG and these Bylaws, the Faculty Council shall determine its own procedures, including appointment of subcommittees as appropriate. The presiding officer at Council meetings shall be the Faculty Council chair or the vice chair in the absence of the chair.

Meetings of the Faculty Council may be called at the request of the Council chair, the dean, or by a request of a majority of members. The Council will meet in promotion executive session (i.e., only the five departmental representatives) when addressing personnel matters. Academic human resources staff member(s) from the Office of the Dean will attend promotion executive sessions. Regular executive session meetings may be called at the request of the Council chair or a majority of members. The chair or majority of members will determine who will attend regular executive sessions and all seven members are eligible to attend. Regular meetings will ordinarily occur monthly throughout the academic year. Regular and promotion executive sessions will be scheduled as needed.

Voting on any item of business in any meeting of the Council shall be by secret ballot if requested by any Faculty Council member. Approval shall require an affirmative vote from more than 50% of the voting membership of the Council. Members shall recuse... themselves from votes on appointment or promotion of individuals from their departments.

F. Written Records: The chair of the Council, with support from the staff of the Office of the Dean, shall be responsible for preparing a written summary of all Faculty Council proceedings, including votes and formal recommendations of the Council, which shall be part of the permanent record of the School and shall be available (subject to FCG provisions and University regulations regarding personnel matters) to any voting member of the School upon request.

G. Vacancies: A vacancy in any position can occur through such processes as resignation, termination of employment, leave, or failure to attend three consecutive meetings without advance notification. If a vacancy should occur during the term of any office, the respective entity shall provide for an election to fill the duration of the term of office for that position.

Section 2. Committees

A. Committees of the School of Public Health: The School of Public Health has a Curriculum and Educational Policy Committee (CEPC). The Faculty Council and the dean shall jointly determine and form temporary ad-hoc committees for the School to address appropriate issues such as student life, etc., that cannot be adequately addressed by the Faculty Council or the CEPC. The Faculty Council and the dean shall also determine, at any time necessary, whether to establish new, additional permanent committees or to move an ad-hoc committee to permanent status.

CEPC committee membership is detailed within the charging document for said committee. Any newly formed permanent committee will be granted its own charge, with formation of members also detailed within its charge. Typically, Faculty Council and the dean will ensure members consist of at least one regular faculty representative from each department in the School, and additional faculty or staff and/or student members as necessary to conduct committee business. Faculty members for these committees shall be elected by the faculty of each department during the same annual election cycle and 3-year term of office as departmental Council representatives described in Article IV (1-B) of the Bylaws.

In addition to the information in section IV.1.A above, the Faculty Council shall provide a charge for itself and each committee describing its purpose and responsibilities, as well as its criteria and procedures for determining eligible membership. These charge documents must be approved by the dean and the Faculty Council and reviewed periodically.

Each committee may set its own internal procedures as appropriate to its charge.
Students may participate as non-voting members of committees, as appropriate. Nominations of student members shall be made at the beginning of Autumn Quarter. Terms of student members shall be for one year; reappointment is allowed. Nominations are coordinated between the Chair of each committee and the assistant dean for students in the Office of the Dean.

Committee chairs shall be responsible for preparing a written summary of all committee proceedings, including votes and formal recommendations to the Council, which shall be part of the permanent record of the School and shall be available (subject to FCG provisions regarding personnel matters) upon request to any member of the School. Committees shall elect a chair from among the members to serve a one-year term: reappointment is allowed. The standing committees shall report on their proceedings to the Faculty Council periodically or when asked to do so by the Council chair.
